CIRCUIT COURT.

Grand Jury Makes Its Report This Morning.

ARRAIGNMENT OF CRIMINALS
BEGUN AT ONCE.

Cases Will Probably All Be Disposed Of Today.

JUDGE HALE OF PORTLAND, ME., IS ON THE BENCH.

The United States circuit court came in at eleven o'clock this forenoon, with Judge Clarence Hale of Portland presiding.

The grand jury returned their indictments at eleven o'clock and were then discharged.

The following criminal cases were then called and disposed of:

Alexis Dugrenier of Manchester pleaded nolo to three counts of selling without the revenue tax. The first two were not pressed and he was fined $20 and costs of $25.

Samuel B. Strickland of Littleton, for the same offense, was fined $20
and costs of $25.

John Curtis of Walpole, for a like offense, was fined $20 with costs to be taxed by the clerk.

Leslie P. Young of South Deerfield was arraigned and pleaded guilty to the charge of opening a letter which did not belong to him.

Lawyer Marvin appeared for him
and informed the court that the boy had been placed on a farm when but nine years of age, for his hard, and at the age of thirteen he was placed with Mrs. Fannie Stevens, who was postmistress. He was put in charge of the postoffice, as the postmistress was away the greater part of the time. The postoffice was formerly in the kitchen, but it was changed and sent to a smaller town thereabouts.

The boy had a mother who was destitute and the hundred dollars a year he received supported her. He opened a letter one day out of curiosity. This was found out and he was arrested. He had an excellent reputation.

Sentence was suspended during good behavior.

Daniel Hessian of East Jaffrey, on two counts for selling liquor without paying the revenue tax, was fined $20 and costs of $25 on each case.

Lewis H. Clarke of Claremont was charged with sending a threatening postal card through the mail. The card was addressed to a woman who held his trunk and he said on the card that he wanted it sent to him before a certain date, or he would send a man after it. He wrote, "A lawyer who I have seen says that you stole the trunk when you moved it."

Judge Hale suspended the sentence.

Frederick Tarlton, alias Fred Wilson, was arraigned and pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking and entering the South Kingston postoffice on April 16, 1902.

Tarlton was arrested in New Jersey and was brought to Concord, and this morning brought here by Marshal Rand.

He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and serve eighteen months in the county jail at Manchester.

Frank Nappoli of Bennington pleaded not guilty to the charge of selling liquor without an internal revenue stamp. His case was held over until this afternoon.

Philip Nadeau of Nashua, for selling without the internal revenue stamp, was fined $20 and costs of $25, which was suspended.

Riva F. Parker of Whitefield was arraigned charged with certifying to a pension voucher, without the woman being present. His case was placed on file.

Court then adjourned until this afternoon at half-past two o'clock.

HEARING ON MAY 20.

Amended Bill Filed at Exeter in Suit Against Wallace D. Lovell et al.

Counsel for Charles G. Kidd of Kirremuir, Scot., and G. Henry Whitcomb of Worcester, in the suit against the New Hampshire Traction company, the Massachusetts Construction company, incorporated, the New York Security and Trust company and Wallace D. Lovell, filed with the clerk of superior court at Exeter, on Tuesday, a long document in amendment of plaintiff's original bill.

In thirty-one allegations it lays increased emphasis on the alleged conspiracy and fraudulent acts of the defendants, and in compliance with its request, Judge Young made a special order for the defendants to appear in answer to the amended bill at a session of superior court to be held in Exeter May 20.

KITTERY.

Kittery, Me., May 6.

If William Stimpson and Maurice Whitcomb will send their addresses to Wallace Jackson, agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, they will confer a great favor
on him.

The social meetings were rather poorly attended last evening, owing to the inclemency of the weather.

Willis Keene is having his new house painted.

Mrs. Charles H. Bartlett, who has been confined to her room for the past month, is not as well this morning.

John Duckling has moved his family from Boston to Kittery.

The attendance at the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias was good last evening and excellent work was done.

The street commissioner in the village proper is receiving congratulations for the good work begun along Government street.

It was voted yesterday at the town meeting, among other things, to build the much-needed school house
at Kittery Point.

Naval lodge meets this evening and the degree will be worked on four candidates.

RIVER AND HARBOR.

The tug M. M. Davis docked the schooner Sarah C. Ropes at Railroad wharf this morning.

The Langley Transportation company's barge Fanny P. has been loaded with coal and was towed to Dover by the tug Lester L. today.

The barge Merrill is loading coal
at J. A. and A. W. Walker's, for Exeter.

The schooner Matilda D. Borda has finished discharging her cargo of coal and was towed to the lower harbor
by the tug Davis on Tuesday.

The barge Maple Hill was towed to the lower harbor on Tuesday to await a tow to Philadelphia.

The United States collier Sterling has finished discharging her cargo of coal at the navy yard and is waiting for favorable weather to sail.

The P. N. Co's barge P. N. Co. No.
9, is at Railroad wharf loading boilers and brick-making machinery for the York Harbor Brick company of York Harbor. She will be towed
there by the tug Piscataqua.

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Middle street Baptist church holds its regular monthly meeting in the chapel on Thursday afternoon and evening. This organization voted some months ago to change its meetings from the first Wednesday in the month to the first Thursday.

CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS DONE.

Judge Louis G. Hoyt and Registrar
George F. Richards of Exeter held a session of probate court at the county court house on State street in this city Tuesday. A large amount of business was transacted, but little of especial importance was done.

SAWED A WAY OUT.

Two Prisoners Escape From House Of Correction.

LIKELIHOOD THAT THEY HAVE HEADED THIS WAY.

George Robinson and Michael Mc-Nally sawed their way out of the house of correction at the Strafford county farm yesterday and it is likely that they headed this way.

Robinson was sent to the institution from superior court at the last term, for one year, for horse stealing in Rochester. McNally was serving out a sentence imposed in the Dover police court.

McNally has friends here in Portsmouth and as he is too well known in Dover to go there, it is believed that he and his companion will seek refuge in this city.

How the men obtained the tools with which they sawed their way to liberty appears to be a mystery which remains to be solved.

Their escape was not discovered until early yesterday morning when the keeper made his visit to the prison and found that the bars to the cells had been sawed off during the night.

ARTIST AND AUTHOR.

Noted Resident Of Kittery Point Has Achieved A Double Fame.

George S. Wasson, the artist-author, whose book on the life of deep sea fishermen, "Cap'n Simeon's Store," will be published in April,
was born at Groveland, Mass., on the Merrimac River, in 1855. His grandfather was a shipbuilder and several of his uncles were sea captains, so it is natural enough that he should have a liking for the sea. He also comes of good literary stock, as his father, the late David Atwood Wasson, was a famous Unitarian preacher, philosophical writer, and a true poet. Wasson studied art abroad for several years, at a German Kunst-Schule and elsewhere. On his return, he located in Boston and became the pupil of Joseph Foxcroft Cole, sharing the studio with him for several years. He was a member of the St.
Botolph and Arts clubs, and at the caricature exhibitions of the Paint and Clay club, the sense of humor that infuses his writings produced things so irresistibly funny as to be the talk of the town. He has confined his work to marine and shore subjects. In a small sloop, built largely by himself, he has scoured the New England coast, sketching whatever caught his fancy. In 1889 he built his present house and studio at Kittery Point, in order that he might be near the sea throughout the year.
Of late he has been giving much attention to literary work and is taking rank as one of the best writers of New England salt-water character sketches. His recent contributions to the leading magazines have had an enthusiastic reception, which has encouraged him in presenting his first book.

CANNOT HELP WONDERING.

One cannot help wondering at the retentive powers of John Craig. During his engagement at the Castle Square theatre, Boston, he has played 140 parts, each one averaging at least seventy-five pages, while some of the heavier assignments have reached what is known as 180
"sides." When it is remembered that he has only six days, or rather more accurately expressed, six mornings, to acquire perfection, and that he begins to rehearse for a following week on Tuesday morning, while yet hardly sure of the part instituted the night before for the current week, it will be seen that he has two characters on his hands at all times,
and that working in the trenches might be welcomed, at times, even by a leading man. Though there is a great deal of hard work connected with his presentation of Prince Karl,
the work is a great relief, and no one will relish the change more than Mr.
Craig. He and his complete company will give one presentation of Prince Karl at Music hall soon.

FOR COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

Program Of Attendant Exercises At The State College.

The program of the commencement exercises at New Hampshire College are published below. They will consume four days, beginning with the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 31,
and concluding with the senior promenade on the evening of June 3. This latter is one of the most important events on the state social calendar.

On Monday and Tuesday, June 1
and 2, the examinations for admission to the college will be held and on Wednesday, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, the degrees will be conferred.

The printed program is an artistic bit of typographical work and is well worth preserving for its oddity and beauty.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Herman Long, the famous shortstop, has just passed his fortieth birthday and is playing as fast a game as ever. Long is a man who takes care of himself.

"There isn't an infield in the country which has anything on us," said Jimmy Collins in Washington, "and it plays together better than any quint in either league. We've got two good hitters in the outfield, and all of them are fairly good fielders,
while Dougherty need bow to none.
However, Washington has us beaten
a block in the outer garden. Delehanty, Ryan and Seibach are the hardest hitting meadow trio in either the National or American leagues, if not the heaviest batting outfield that ever played together."

Walter Clarkson is regarded as one of the best ball players in Harvard ever had. He is easily the best college pitcher of today. So keen a critic of the game as "Dutch" Carter, the famous Yale twirler of former days, says he can pitch rings all around Matthewson. Pretty strong praise, that.

Seven hundred dollars has been raised at Claremont for the support of a baseball team this season.

Killing of the Chicago Nationals,
who brings up the tail end of the batting average to date, made but two hits in 35 times at bat. That's missing 'em some.

Harvard inflicted a defeat of 9 to 1 to Dartmouth at Hanover on Monday, through the wretched playing of the home team. Harvard was not in especially good form, but Dartmouth bunched her errors at critical points.
Clase pitched a fast game and backed up nine men, but he was given poor support. Coburn had eleven to his credit, largely because Dartmouth seemed stage-struck before the Crimson terrors.

WINES TO BE BANISHED.

Significant Action Taken By Knights Templar of the San Francisco Jurisdiction.

Masons, and particularly Knights Templar, in Portsmouth have been much interested in the announcement from San Francisco that the grand commandery of Knights Templar of that jurisdiction at its convocation which has just closed voted to banish wines from all of its entertainments and banquets. It is stated also that when the grand lodge, A. F.
and A. M., of California meets in October next a similar rule will be made as to all lodge meetings.

This is a radical departure from long established custom of the Masons of the Pacific coast, although such a regulation is the rule in the East, and the California bodies are doing this in order to have their rules harmonize with the practices of the Masons elsewhere throughout the country. In New Hampshire is the rule to serve no wines at Masonic gatherings.

One California commandery of Knights Templar brought a carload or more of wines east with it at the time of the triennial convocation in Boston a few years since, and at a reception given by it at its headquarters presented to each guest a bottle.

NEW TELEPHONE RULES.

New rules at the telephone exchange have gone into effect. Regardless of the fact that for several days nearly every patron of the company has been practicing the art of calling by numbers, there were a great many slip-ups recorded. The rule, however, is a very necessary
one, and after it becomes established will work to the benefit of all concerned. It is a little too much to expect that the operators in the exchange should be able to make connection when the applicant merely gives the name of the person wanted and fails to give the number of his telephone. If you want to call up this office now, you must say "three-seven, ring two," instead of saying:
"Please give me the Herald office," as has been a general custom heretofore.
Again, if "105-2" is wanted you will say: "One-o-five, ring two." When you do this, the number will be repeated by the operator; but if you fail to do so correctly you are turned over to another operator, who ascertains whom you wish to communicate with and the correct number will be given you. Then you must call the operator once more. This rule is in vogue everywhere, but it is a new thing, practically, for Portsmouth.
After one gets accustomed to it, however, it won't be quite so difficult to observe as it now appears to be.

SUPERIOR COURT.

The case being tried in superior court at Exeter today is a suit for negligence brought against Susan D.
Flynn by Samuel Blum. It is a Portsmouth case. The plaintiff has Page and Bartlett for counsel, the defendant Emery, Simes and Corey.

Welcome as sunshine after storm is the relief when an obstinate, pitiless cough has been driven away by Allen's Lung Balm. No opium in it. The good effect lasts. Take a bottle home with you this day.

WHAT THE RICH MAN CANNOT PURCHASE

By President CHARLES W. KIMOT of Harvard

WE WANT MORE HAPPINESS, MORE REAL SATISFACTION, MORE JOY, MORE ENJOYMENT.

It is said that we Americans are always trying to get money—more pay, higher wages, higher salaries, more profit in our trade—and there is truth in that description of the American aim. Now, is that the ultimate end of life? Is that the way to win greater happiness, truer enjoyment, deeper satisfactions?

I THINK THE FIRST SOURCE, THE GREATEST SOURCE IN THIS WORLD, IS FAMILY LIFE, THE JOYS OF FATHER AND MOTHER AND CHILDREN AND GRANDFATHER AND GRANDMOTHER AND GRANDCHILDREN. THEY LAST.

In the natural course of life they last fifty, even sixty, years, and they grow as time passes by. They are always increasing; they are not diminishing satisfactions.

Does the rich man have any more of these true and high satisfactions than the poor man? Not one whit more! He cannot buy them. They are the result of natural affection and of disciplined character. They are absolutely unpurchasable in this world.

A Year of Prosperity For the West

By GEORGE GOULD, Head of the Gould System of Railroads

CAN SEE A FULL YEAR OF PROSPERITY AHEAD FOR THE WEST. THE PHYSICAL CONDITION OF THE RAILROADS IN THE WEST WAS NEVER BETTER THAN IT IS NOW.

All our earnings are going ahead of the largest period we have ever had.

I have never seen wheat look so well in all my experience in the west as it does today.

I BELIEVE THAT IT WILL BE SOME TIME BEFORE THE WEST WILL EVER NEED TO CALL ON NEW YORK FOR MONEY. The western bankers have their own money to lend to their own people, unless money should get so high in Wall street as to make it profitable to send it east.

"Hell Is Within Us, and Heaven Too"

By Rev. Dr. LYMAN ABBOTT of Brooklyn

SALVATION IS CHARACTER. EVERY EFFORT TO ATTAIN A PERFECT CHARACTER IS A STEP TOWARD SALVATION.

CAN A MAN BE SAVED AND NOT ACCEPT CHRIST? IF A MAN TRIES TO LEAD THE LIFE OF PURITY THAT CHRIST LED, I THINK HE WOULD BE SAVED.

I THINK THAT HELL IS WITHIN US, AND HEAVEN TOO.

You have seen men with hell in their eyes, and you and I have both seen men who had heaven in their faces.

It was not the few drops of blood trickling down the palms and from the side of Jesus that constitute the sacrifice that atoned for the sins of man; it was the thirty-three years' contact with the cowards, liars, weaklings, of his daily life.

The Negro a Slave For the Giant Race

By Bishop HENRY M. TURNER of Georgia

THE African emigration movement has not met with the approval of a majority of the negro race. A lot of ignorant negroes have opposed it from its very inception. They prate about the sickness of Africa and many other things of which they are in dense ignorance. The thoughtful and intelligent of the white race ignore the emigration movement, and it will yet prove a success and of untold blessings to the negro race.

IT WILL BE REMEMBERED THAT NOT MORE THAN ONE-THIRD OF THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL EVER CAME OUT OF EGYPT. THE OTHER TWO-THIRDS WERE EXTERMINATED. THIS WILL BE THE FINAL OUTCOME OF THE AMERICAN NEGRO IF HE REMAINS HERE.

There is some chance, too, of the negro being re-enslaved if he prefers to stay here. Some people are unkind enough to say that this kind of talk comes from a disordered brain. That kind of prating does not annoy me in the least.

THE NEGRO CAN NEVER HOPE TO ATTAIN RESPECTABLE RECOGNITION HERE, AND I THINK HE SHOULD GO WHERE HE CAN. HERE HE IS ONLY A SLAVE AND A MENIAL FOR THE GIANT RACE. THAT IS ALL HE CAN EVER HOPE TO BE IN THIS LAND.

Voice of Women Needed In Our Government

By HENRY B. BLACKWELL, Champion of Woman Suffrage

WOMAN ASKS THE RIGHT TO VOTE. LET HER HAVE IT. She will not be masculine, but she will do the woman's part in politics. God never meant that political society should be composed of men only. He intended that government should also be something of the home. As long as women are kept out of the government there can be no settled spirit of peace.

The question of woman suffrage is no longer a question of theory, but it has become a practical question. In all states where woman suffrage has been established the best results have followed.

AND IT IS ONLY IN TWELVE STATES TODAY THAT A MARRIED WOMAN HAS ANY LEGAL RIGHT TO THE CARE AND CUSTODY OF HER MINDING CHILDREN. UNTIL LAST YEAR THE WOMEN OF MASSACHUSETTS DID NOT HAVE IT; UNTIL THE YEAR BEFORE LAST THE WOMEN OF ILLINOIS HAD IT NOT. IN EVERY CASE THE RIGHT HAS BEEN SECURED BY THE ADVOCATES OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

AMERICA NEEDS A NEW HEART

Our Mad Rush to Get Rich—Overcapitalization and Overproduction Are Responsible For Many of the Evils of Today—A People Lacking in Ideals : : : :

The Commercial Spirit's Bad Deeds—Rivers De-filed, Air Blackened and Poisoned and Nature Defaced That We May Have Greater Extravagance : : : :

By JOHN LANCASTER SPALDING, Bishop of Peoria

WE shall have strikes and lockouts and perhaps violence in the future. The fierce competitive system under which we live and which results in overcapitalization and overproduction is responsible for many of the evils from which we suffer. SOME OF OUR GREATEST INDUSTRIES ARE CAPITALIZED AT FOUR AND FIVE TIMES THEIR REAL VALUE, AND EVERY POSSIBLE DEVICE IS RESORTED TO IN ORDER TO PAY DIVIDENDS ON THE WATERED STOCK. The outcome sooner or later is a panic which destroys hundreds of millions of dollars and brings wretchedness and want to millions of human beings.

WHERE IS THE REASON FOR ALL THIS? IT SPRINGS FROM OUR AMERICAN HURRY TO GET RICH, WHICH IS A DISEASE OF A PEOPLE WHO LACK IDEALS; WHO MEASURE THE VALUE OF RELIGION, CULTURE AND ART BY THE INFLUENCE OF THESE THINGS ON THRIFT AND MATERIAL PROSPERITY.

In the midst of all this rush and noise of business, of expansion and success, we are rapidly growing incapable of taking or loving the deeper views of life. Our faith in education is, at bottom, the faith in its powers to enable us to get more money. Our preaching, leaving aside the things that are eternally right and true and indispensable, concerns itself with that which is frivolous, startling and vulgar.

THERE IS, I THINK, SOMEWHERE IN THE BIBLE A TEXT WHICH SAYS THAT GOD IS ANGRY WITH THE NATIONS THAT ARE RICH.

How many of us in the contemplation of the lives of men who have spent all their energies in accumulating riches have had an eye for the exactions of this wealth; have thought how misspent these lives for the most part have been, how barren of ideals? Look what this spirit has done for us. It has defiled our rivers until in our cities today a thirsty man may not get a glass of cold water that is fit to drink. It has blackened and poisoned the atmosphere with smoke and noxious vapors. It has desecrated the face of nature where such desecration were a blasphemy. It has made hovels for the occupation of man where not even swine could live in comfort.

AND ALL FOR WHAT? THAT A NATION, ALREADY THE MOST WASTEFUL AND EXTRAVAGANT ON EARTH, MIGHT BE ABLE FOR GREATER EXTRAVAGANCES.

WE NEED NOT SO MUCH NEW MEASURES AS A NEW HEART. In our labor difficulties the moralization of both employers and employees is an indispensable condition in the bringing about of a better state of things. And since the employers are fewer in number and presumably more intelligent than are the laborers the chief effort should be to give them new minds and new hearts that they may understand that they are trustees not less of public interests than of private interests and that the rights of workers, to say the least, are as sacred as are the rights of owners.

OUR NAVY SHOULD MAINTAIN A POLICY OF CONSTANT GROWTH

By Rear Admiral ALBERT S. BARKER, U. S. N.

WE HAVE BECOME A WORLD POWER, AND WE NEED THE SEA ARMAMENT OF A WORLD POWER.

Our naval policy should be one of constant growth. The nation as a whole, I am convinced, believes that we should have a powerful navy.

At the beginning of the Franco-Prussian war, in 1870, the German sea power was hardly worthy of the name of a navy. For a time during the progress of that conflict I was stationed at Key West. There was a fight outside Havana harbor between a German and French vessel, and, if I remember the incident correctly, the Frenchman was forced to put back, disabled. The German ship was nothing but a small gunboat.

THE GERMANS IN THOSE DAYS HAD NOTHING THAT REACHED THE PRETENSIONS OF A BATTLE SHIP. SINCE CONFEDERATION AND THE RISE OF THE EMPIRE, HOWEVER, WHAT PROGRESS THE GERMANS HAVE MADE!

Their navy is now one of the most powerful in the world and is growing annually. We, too, should maintain a policy of constant growth.

KICKING STRAPS FOR TRUST HORSES A BETTER REMEDY THAN HAMSTRINGING

By LESLIE M. SHAW, Secretary of the Treasury

COMBINED CAPITAL IS NOT AN UNMIXED EVIL, BUT, LIKE EVERY OTHER POSSIBLE GOOD, IS CAPABLE OF EVIL. We have reached a point in our civilization where the things we undertake require associated capital. It is therefore the province of the statesman to so legislate as to encourage associated capital and at the same time guard against the evils that frequently ensue.

IT IS VASTLY WISER TO PUT KICKING STRAPS ON YOUR HORSES THAN TO HAMSTRING THEM.

Sporting Comment

Father Bill Daly's Winning Stable & Monroe and Sharky.

There is no better known horseman in the country than William C. Daly, better known as "Father Bill." Father Bill has one of the most successful thoroughbred stables on the turf, and the persistence with which his horses win has caused many a wealthier rival to wonder how the trick is done.

But they never find out. Father Bill has been in the horse racing business long enough to keep his methods to himself, and, as he laughingly stated to an inquisitive friend the other day, he is not "running a turf information bureau for horsemen that don't know their business."

Father Bill is also well known through the many star jockeys he has produced. He has a school for jockeys at Sheepshead Bay, New York, where he makes international champion riders out of stable boys. Danny Maher is a product of Father Bill, as also are McLaughlin, Miles, Creamer and his newest sensation, Brennan.

The remarkable feature of Daly's stable is the fact that he has no horses of really high class and in spite of this continues to send winners across "the plate." Daly's astuteness in choosing the races for his entries is evidently responsible for this state of affairs, and it all goes to show that there is more in the racing game than the mere production of a fast horse.

The Daly stable won many valuable races at New Orleans in the winter, repeating the trick during the first part of the recent Bannings meet at Washington, and is now chasing the elusive dollars on the track of the Metropolitan Jockey club at Jamaica, N. Y.

The best known winners in the Daly string are Himself and Daly. Himself is a remarkably game and speedy proposition and especially revels in heavy going. He is a five-year-old chestnut gelding and is a son of Himyar and Felicité. Other thoroughbreds owned by Father Bill are Aisake, Anna Darling, Beautiful, Bobbinet, Cartoon, Françoise, Gink, Hebron, Hartford, Locket, Miss Appleby and Squid.

Clark Ball, manager of Jack Monroe, the Butte miner, has announced that so far as he is concerned there is no chance of the Monroe-Sharky fight going to Philadelphia. Ball says he will not consider any offers for a six round bout, as his man wants to fight twenty rounds or more. Ball expects the Broadway club of Butte to get the battle.

Louis N. James, national amateur golf champion, played for the second time this year at Glen View, near Chicago, recently, and made an eighty-one for the double round of the first nine holes. The youthful champion was home from Princeton and with Jack Sellers won a four ball match against President Fred S. James and Robert E. James, father and younger brother respectively of the champion.

HIMSELF, FATHER BILL DALY'S STAKE WINNER.

ago, recently, and made an eighty-one for the double round of the first nine holes. The youthful champion was home from Princeton and with Jack Sellers won a four ball match against President Fred S. James and Robert E. James, father and younger brother respectively of the champion.

Asked as to his opinion upon the method of playing the championship Louis said: "I am in favor of retaining the qualifying round at thirty-six holes, thirty-two to qualify, and having the subsequent match rounds at thirty-six holes. This was the method in force before last year."

In view of the fact that James' score in the championship last summer was no better than sixty-third in the qualifying round it is apparent that he has no selfish motives in the opinion he expresses. Falling to land in the first thirty-two, it is certain he would take his medicine without excuse. His opinion is wonderfully similar to that of Walter J. Travis, who considers thirty-six holes the better test.

The schedule of fixtures and races for ninety footers, in which the Hellance, Columbia and Constitution will probably take part, for the season of 1903, as formulated by the regatta committee of the New York club is as follows:

Ninety Footer Series, Glen Cove (N. Y.) Course—May 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, June 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, July 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, Aug. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, Oct. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, Nov. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, Dec. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.

The mainmast spindlers of Hellance are twenty feet long. They are made of oak and taper to a point from an unusually broad base.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 6, 1908.

Next Tuesday the voters of Portsmouth will decide whether instantaneism shall be legally sold in this city, under rigid restrictions and regulations, or the city shall experience such an alcoholic drouth as it has never yet known under the prohibitory law, until the fall of 1908. We believe the interests of the city will best be forwarded by having the vote for license prevail. Prohibition has never extinguished the liquor traffic here, and of course there could be no legal attempt to regulate a traffic that was wholly illegal. The traffic has been regulated, and well regulated, for a number of years past; but this has been done by police commission rules and not by the law of the state or the municipality. It would be better to have it regulated legally—better, in our own belief, than to have it entirely abolished. But if the majority of the voters declare themselves in favor of having it abolished, we feel assured it will be. The license law passed by the legislature at its late session has teeth and claws, as violators of its provisions will discover, and it has been demonstrated that our police force under a commission is many times more efficient than it ever was when controlled by the political bosses of the several wards. It has always been claimed, by the disbelievers in prohibition, that the majority sentiment of the city was opposed to it. If this claim shall be proved to be incorrect by the result of the voting next Tuesday, the police commissioners will have no excuse to offer if thereafter liquor is allowed to be sold in Portsmouth, and we are assured that they will not allow it to be sold.

PENCIL POINTS.

It might be a wise move on the part of the coal trust to gag Mr. Baer.

Russia is said to have postponed her Manchurian coup. Now we wonder why.

The automobilists object to being sent to jail. Naturally so do all law breakers.

When Dr. Parkhurst begins to talk all the wise men within hearing at once seek safety in flight.

If the Democrats nominate Cleveland, Bryan will have a golden opportunity to return good for evil.

There are lots of men in New Hampshire waiting for the state college presidency lightning to strike.

We know a great many more things the stars than our ancestors did, but we can't prove any of them.

Gen. Matos, the leader of the Venetian revolution, is marching on Caracas. He has been doing the same thing for a year.

Ten thousand liquor licenses have been granted in New York. It ought to be fairly easy to obtain liquor without a license in that town.

Andrew Carnegie believes in government ownership of the railroads. Does he also believe in government ownership of steel plants?

Prof. Griggs of New Zealand, has a revolution, is marching on despatches neglect to state what the professor proposes to do with it.

It might be interesting to try to find a prominent man who is neither a former resident of Boston nor a descendant of an "old Boston family."

Just at present the Democratic party swears allegiance to Mr. Cleveland, but it will have a dozen idols before the time comes for the national convention.

It would not be surprising if President Roosevelt enjoyed his cowboy breakfast more than some of the elaborate banquets of which he has lately partaken.

THE COAL MERGER.

Ten cents a ton was on Friday added by every dealer in the city to the price of coal. A similar "automatic increase" will be made on the first day of each month during the summer at the nod of a single man, George F. Baer, the ruling spirit of the coal merger.

The recent testimony of Mr. Baer before the Interstate Commerce Commission frankly explains how the price of a great necessity of life may be thus manipulated with unerring certainty. The six coal roads mine 30 per cent of all the anthracite produced in Pennsylvania; the other 20 per cent they control almost as absolutely. If an "independent" operator wished to send his coal to tide-water and sell at his own price, the railroad at once common carrier and competitor, would charge him thirty-five cents more a ton than the cost of carriage when he sells to the railroad at the mine. Therefore he sells the railroads market all the coal. This is monopoly unmitigated.

There was once a great colliery company that planned an independent railroad to take coal to salt water. Mr. Baer explains how this threatened competition was frustrated. He bought a small concern, the Temple Iron company, mainly for its charter, which would permit it to hold the colliers of the company which was to be "got out of the anthracite situation." The railroad companies agreed to guarantee the stock and bonds of the Temple company, enlarged so that it could swallow the ambitious competitor. Thus the great Temple company, nominally a separate organization, practically the creature and the property of the "coal railroads," became the vast tool of monopoly which it is today. And the six coal roads in this transaction revealed their substantial unity for "killing competition and capitalizing monopoly."

Mr. Baer is an interesting witness. His testimony goes far to explain the general expectation that an early move of Attorney-General Knox in his campaign against mergers may be of especial interest to the consumers of coal.—New York World.

A SHORT ENTERTAINMENT.

Last evening the City band had practice in the old court house, as usual on Tuesday evening, and although the weather was somewhat unfavorable for out-of-door entertainments the hoodlums with the sea boots on gave one of their hoedown performances on the front platform. They did not keep it up so long as they sometimes have done, however, as they did not commence until about half-past nine o'clock and finished before ten.

BOTTLED SUNSHINE

Scott's Emulsion brings sunshine to the entire system of the consumptive.

All life is sunshine. The sun pouring its rays into the plant combines earth, water and air into new plant tissue. Sunshine stored up in the plant is its life.

The animal changes plant tissue into animal tissue, changes the stored up sunshine of plant life into animal life.

Fat contains more stored up sunshine than any other form of animal tissue. This is why Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil is literally bottled sunshine, full of rich nourishment and new life for the consumptive.

APHORISMS ON MAN, MANNERS, PRINCIPLES AND THINGS.

The above is the title of a new scarce volume, printed in 1810, for the author, Joseph Bartlett, counsellor at law, by the Oracle office in Portsmouth. The fortunate possessor of this is Charles W. Gray, of Richards avenue, to whom it was recently presented.

Attached to a fly leaf is a clipped advertisement, dated June, 1809, stating that "Joseph Bartlett, having removed from Berwick and opened his office in Portsmouth, will be happy to attend to any business for any of his fellow citizens, in the line of his profession."

The gentleman's aphorisms indicate a wide research and are given under various heads. He dedicates this volume of one hundred and forty-eight pages "To all my enemies," and he adds, (we give also the exact punctuation, but omit the profuse italics) "I now most humbly supplicate, that you would take this little volume into your malignant keeping. I pray you to oppose it, do all you can to destroy it, let no measures be forsaken that will injure and vilify the author, it will probably give it greater circulation, and introduce it to more general notice, don't fear my anger or my vengeance, be inattentive to my mortification, and be regardless of my distress: I know your goodness, your friendship and attachments, and rest assured, that your most vigorous opposition, your most virulent slander and most inveterate malice, will be fully appreciated, and receive the proper acknowledgments of him, who has been, is now and ever solicited to be distinguished by your hatred." October, 1810. "THE AUTHOR."

Esq. Bartlett was a prominent lawyer of his day and a speaker of good address, but somewhat given to eccentricities as the able volume indicates. He was a radical Democrat in politics and at the political celebration in Portsmouth in July 4, 1809, delivered the oration at the North church, at the same time the federalists were holding a meeting at the Old South church and listening to an address by Isaac Lyman, Esq.

A GALLOPING LAW.

Galloping through the public streets of Portsmouth in these modern days, and as practiced by certain drivers, is something fearful, and wholly unlike, at least according to law, what it used to be in grandfather's days.

In the treasure-trove collection of antiquities owned by Mr. Gray, we pick out the following ancient and original document relating to galloping, and herewith give it verbatim: "A By-law made by the Selectmen of Portsmouth in the Province of New Hampshire for said town, June 2, 1752.

"Whereas by people's Riding Swiftly through the public streets in the populous parts of said town there is great danger of Hurt and damage being done Especially to Children, for the prevention of which it is ordered and determined that if any person whatsoever of said inhabitants shall Ride through any of said streets in the populous parts of said Town upon the full Gallop or any other pace of equal swiftness, and be thereof convicted, before any Justice of the peace belonging to said Town by the Testimony of one credible witness or more the person so offending shall forfeit and pay for the use of the poor of said Town the Sum of Five shillings for every such offense to be Levied by distress under the hand and seal of the Justice before whom the Conviction shall be, and if such offender be a minor, servant or slave the said fine shall be Levied on the Parents, Guardians or master of such offender.

Respectfully,

THE FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST.

Another interesting relic of Mr. Gray's collection is a pamphlet giving the names of the members of the First Church of Christ in Portsmouth (Congregationalist).

The list embraces those who were members "at the re-settlement of the ministry, March 15, 1815," and up to and including 1821. There are two hundred and fifty-seven names recorded, and of this number six were people of color.

The list was, according to the preface "printed solely for the private use of the members of the church. It is believed that it may be serviceable to them as a means of acquiring and preserving that knowledge of one another, which is so necessary for the cultivation of a spirit of brotherly love, and for many other patriotic purposes."

BRIEFLETS.

Included further in Mr. Gray's relics are these:

A ticket of admission to the noted Franklin ball of January 17, 1825, for Nathaniel Marshall, and respectively signed by the managers thereof, Samuel Gookin, Robert Lefavour and John Smith.

An old Eastern railroad special ticket, not filed out.

Another relic is of date October 18, 1847, being a time table of the Essex railroad from Salem to Danvers, and of which John Kinsman was superintendent. The following names appear thereon as conductors: R. W. Annable, C. C. Davis, J. D. Akerman, Jeremiah Prescott, Benjamin Thompson, B. H. Cram, A. G. Bedee and J. B. Winchester.

One more ancient indenture in Mr. Gray's valued collection is an advertisement of date July 15, 1800, and signed by John S. Durell of Newmarket offering the munificent sum of one cent reward to "who returns free of cost to his master" of a runaway indentured apprentice named Nicholas Pickering, aged about nineteen years. Mr. Gray also has a copy of that cherished book which gives "An Account of the Several Religious Societies in Portsmouth from their First Establishment and of the Ministers of each, to the first of January, 1805." It was prepared by Timothy Alden, Esq., and is a valuable reference book.

Another interesting relic is an account book started in 1826 by one Sarah Dame and one Ann Lang, of Portsmouth, and covering personal services principally. The book was carefully prepared and as systematically kept, and its ink indentures are remarkably preserved.

The open car period didn't last very long with the street railway people.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.

Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much because it is more than nature asks.

By the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.

"I am pleased to give my testimony and wish I could find words strong enough to induce other sufferers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

writes Mrs. Wesley Guy, of Kemptville, Ont., box 6. "For eight years after my little boy was born I suffered with female weakness, also soreness in ovaries, especially on my right side and pain in back. Was so miserable sometimes did not know what I was going to do. Tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Had only used four bottles, also some of Dr. Pierce's Antiseptic and Healing Suppositories, when I felt like another person. I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all my friends. If anyone wishes to write me I will gladly answer."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss; therefore, accept no substitute. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

Chit-Chat That Is In The May Air.

VARIOUS THINGS OF AN INTERESTING NATURE.

Spring Sidelights On Matters Local And Otherwise.

MANY MATTERS THAT ARE BOTH TIMELY AND TRITE TODAY.

The tides murmur

That strawberry shortcake has the call in the lunch carts—

That the Dyffryns seem to be making good at Music hall—

That Yale plays Phillips Exeter at Exeter next Friday forenoon—

That the customs building is still sorely in need of an elevator—

That the city clerk says the dog license fees are coming in well—

That things are beginning to take on new life at Freeman's Point—

That the membership rolls of the Elks are lengthening out very fast—

That one of these days some literary fellow will sit down and write it—

That the advance guard of our throng of summer colonists is with us—

That the scout gangs are not giving the police any trouble just at present—

That there is a crusade against spitting on the sidewalks in Keene, also—

That it is surprising how many Dover people earn their living in this city—

That the rural free delivery in Rye and Newington is proving a great convenience—

That the reunion of the Fogg family will be held at Hampton Beach again this summer—

That the local Veteran Firemen are looking forward to the Lawrence muster, June 2—

That Private Minnehan was a fine fellow and all his comrades mourn his death deeply—

That it is an awkward time for those Portsmouth cranks to go up who would like to—

That about every boy you meet nowadays has a baseball glove hitched to his belt—

That tomorrow (Thursday) evening's meeting of the city government will be well attended—

That the Dyffryn company will close the week with the old familiar Ten Nights in a Barroom—

That there is always plenty of news in Portsmouth for the paper that knows how to find it—

That the Veteran Firemen's drum corps proposes to wake the echoes in lively fashion this summer—

That the registrars of voters for the special election held their final meeting on Tuesday evening—

That Ringling Bros.' shows are to follow the Barnum and Bailey outfit over New England this summer—

That Portsmouth harbor will be practically impregnable when all the new coast defenses are completed—

That Frank Daniels in Miss Simplicity may be seen at Music hall again before the end of the season—

That the West-end housewives are having a very agreeable respite from the back-door calls of insistent hoboes—

That the new asphalt walk on the south side of City hall is a marked improvement over those ancient flagstones—

That The Herald covers the local field more comprehensively, correctly and readably than any other Portsmouth paper—

That quite a number of Portsmouth people are already laying by their dimes for a visit to the St. Louis exposition—

That Station Agent Grant and his assistants are girding up their loins for the annual summer rush of travelers and baggage—

That "Johnny" Long was about as popular a young man as Portsmouth ever had and sorrow over his sudden death is general and genuine—

That May doesn't seem to have come to us exactly saturated with Italian warmth, but yet the grass appears to have grown green and the trees to have become more fuzzy, so

"Let the GOLD DUST twins do your work."

As a cleaner, soap doesn't begin to compare with GOLD DUST. GOLD DUST does more work, better work and does it cheaper. It saves backs as well as pocketbooks.

Made only by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Chicago, New York, Boston, St. Louis—Makers of OVAL FAIRY SOAP

Why complain? There's a good time coming—

That real warm weather seems to hesitate about making its appearance—

That two extra coal trains went up over the Concord branch on Tuesday morning—

That "Hod" Nelson will bring a string of horses to Granite State park in the near future—

That the bill posters of the Barnum and Bailey shows will be getting in their work here before many moons—

That brook trout fishing was never any better than it is now, as the tramping is good and the streams are quite low—

That one of the engineers at the dry dock had a narrow escape from being hurled down into the dock when that big crane fell—

That by the time the Boston and Maine puts up a new railroad station here, there will probably be a bridge from New Castle to the Isles of Shoals—

That Johnny White found the downtown street crossings badly needed his attention when he arrived on the scene with his hoe this morning—

That a look at the crowd of them who come down on the seven o'clock train every morning will convince you they find Portsmouth a good place to work in—

That there is enough romantic and historical material here in Portsmouth and vicinity for a novel that would make "Solitaire" look like a guide for euchre players—

That the 80-ton Mogul delivered from the American Locomotive Works in Manchester, on Monday, for the Boston and Maine railroad, may run over the Eastern division—

That the no-license people are waging quite a warm campaign at the present time and along toward the latter part of this week things promise to be quite interesting in this section—

That the repeated rumors that the saloons of the city were to be closed preliminary to the new order of things, if the city goes license, appears to have no foundation in fact—

That the front page of the May issue of the Postal Record, the official organ of the National Letter-Carriers' association, published at Washington, is embellished with a fine likeness of Congressman Sulloway—

That the great council of Red Men of New Hampshire has arranged to present two handsome gold badges to the two members of each tribe in the state who shall secure the largest number of new members to be admitted before July 1—

That one of the most important anniversary celebrations for the members of the Methodist church this year will be the 200th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, June 17, and it will undoubtedly be observed appropriately in this city, although up to the present time no definite plans have been made.

A PECULIAR MENU.

A traveling man who has just returned from a trip north has brought back from a good-sized New Hampshire town a hotel menu card, which he values highly as a curiosity. Among the various viands announced to be served are:

"Roiled oats," "beef stake," "creamed fish," "pitterers and maple syrup" and "banners."

CHARMING RECITAL.

Pupils Of Mr. Whitman Acquit Themselves Very Creditably.

The annual piano recital of the pupils of Gerald B. Whitman, given on Tuesday evening in Conservatory hall afforded genuine pleasure to a good sized audience. All the numbers, and some of them were decidedly difficult, were rendered in a manner which redounded to the credit of pupils and teacher.

Warren C. Stanwood, the well known vocalist, was expected to assist, but was unable to appear. His place was taken by Ernest Ferdinand Hoyt of Haverhill, Mass., who gave variety to the program by introducing two violin selections. Mr. Hoyt played with a delicacy of touch which aroused the enthusiasm of his hearers and proved himself a violinist of unusual talent.

The program:

"La Flicurlette," Wellesley

Miss Marion Beatrice Forbes.

"Lullaby," Op. 15, No. 12, Krogman

Miss Marion Octavia Grace.

"Valse Caracteristique," Op. 403, Sartorio

Miss Helen C. Drake.

LEARNED'S LATEST GIRL.

It may be justly said that the girl which Mr. Learned has drawn, and which have been published in The Boston Sunday Herald, represent a higher type of girl than do the work of any of Mr. Learned's contemporaries. These beautiful faces, refined and chaste, are ideals of young womanhood, and are so manifestly all that parents delight in their children, that boys admire in their sisters and that young men seek in wives, that they have achieved a great popularity among the people of New England. In The Sunday Herald of May 10 Mr. Learned's masterpiece, "A Breath of Spring," will appear on the first page of the magazine section. Admirers of Mr. Learned's work will see him at his best in next Sunday's Herald.

Masonic

The hour fixed by the bylaws of all the lodges, chapters, etc., is 7 o'clock in the evening, not half past 8 or 9 o'clock, says the Keystone. Lodge should be opened promptly on time and the business and work done with business dispatch. The one or two members or visitors who come late should remember they are keeping their officers and brother members waiting.

The subordinate lodges of Alabama have a membership of 13,494, according to last reports. The gain last year was 700.

Dr. Charles Orr of Maryland, who died recently, was the oldest past grand master of Masons in the United States.

The Masons of Mount Carmel, Pa., are planning the erection of a new Masonic temple.

One hundred members of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine met in Newark recently and formed Saloom temple, the first to be organized in New Jersey.

Lodge of Antiquity of Montreal celebrated its one hundredth and fifty-first anniversary recently.

The latest statistics of Cryptic Masonry show there are 633 councils in the United States, with a membership of 50,311.

According to last reports, there are forty-six commanderies in Massachusetts, with a membership of 13,692.

The grand lodge of North Carolina has appointed three custodians of the work, following the plan adopted by the grand lodge of New York.

Roscoe W. Broughton of Pawpaw was recently elected grand master of the grand lodge of Michigan.

On account of illness Grand Master Yocum of Missouri has been compelled to relinquish the arduous duties of grand master.

At its last ceremonial session Mecca temple of New York had eighty-four candidates.

Palestine lodge of Detroit has grown to a membership of nearly 900.

An Unjust Aspiration.

"Yes, our society's new president certainly is a busy woman, but they say she is neglecting her duties as a wife and mother."

"That is not true. I know for a fact that she manages to see her family almost every day."—Brooklyn Life.

One Exception.

"Seeing is believing, you know," remarked the man with the ingrown quotation habit.

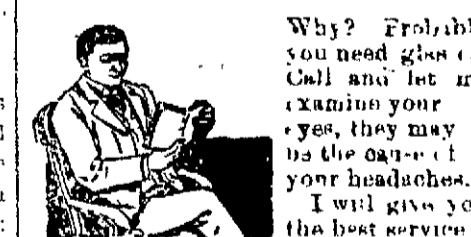

"Not always," replied the frey person. "I see you frequently, but I seldom believe you."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SPEAK OUT.

The Searchlight of Publicity is Pleasing Portsmouth People.

Publicity is what the people want. Let the public speak on the subject.

There has been too much claim—too little proof.

There is only one kind of proof for a Portsmouth citizen:

The experience of people who know.

When friends and neighbors endorse.

No question about such evidence.

This kind of proof backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case of it.

Mr. William R. Weston, of 1 Woodbury avenue, says: "For a year or more I had kidney trouble, sometimes attacking me more severely than others. In every instance I had more or less dizziness, backache, soreness over the kidneys, pains shooting up between the shoulders or down the thighs and too frequent action of the kidney secretions. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at Philbrick's pharmacy in the Franklin block. Well, they went right to the spot at once. I can honestly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Send. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

LOW PRICES.

Many people about Low Prices. This is the best—so is the quality of the goods. We say low prices and we back up the statement with a good reason. We can make the best clothing—make it as well as it can be made—at low prices, because our business is right and we have many customers. There is no use throwing away money. There is no use paying any more for perfection than you have to. We will be glad to see you at our store.

The New Chinese Minister

Favorable Appraisal Made by Sir Chentung Liang Cheng and His Interesting Family

NOW that the diplomatic corps has seen the new Chinese minister, the latest addition to its number, the opinion has been formed at Washington that Sir Chentung Liang Cheng is fully as interesting a personality as his distinguished and popular predecessor, Wu Tingfang.

Sir Chentung Liang Cheng is a man of imposing appearance, of fine physique. His face is what would be called handsome from an oriental standpoint.

With a powerful frame, showing a strong muscular development, there are combined an intellectual countenance and a stateliness of manner which speak the finished scholar, the polished diplomat. Yet there is nothing but straightforward, kindly simplicity in his gentle and eager courtesy. It is safe to say that the new minister is a man who will win and hold warm friends. His dress is rich, but quiet.

Sir Chentung Liang Cheng is a widower of two years' standing and is the father of a large family. Though but forty, he has seven children, three of whom accompanied him to America, the other four having been left in China with his mother.

Sir Cheng speaks better English than his predecessor, having been educated in this country. He is thoroughly democratic. His course through Exeter academy and Andover college, from which he was graduated in 1884, taught him the true side of American life. While at Andover Sir Cheng was a baseball player, and his skill with the bat is still remembered by old Andover students.

He has brought with him to preside over the social atmosphere of the Chinese legation his beautiful young daughter, Miss Whun Mui Liang, the first Chinese maiden to enter society at the national capital as a hostess. Miss Liang, being now in the second of her three years of mourning for her mother, goes about in plain cut clothes of somber hue. Later she will blossom forth in the gay colors and rich embroidery which are worn by Chinese maidens of her rank.

Miss Liang as yet is unable to speak English, but as soon as she becomes a little more familiar with her new surroundings she will be placed with an

TWO SONS OF THE CHINESE MINISTER.

American lady tutor to prepare her for social duties. She will have high rank in the official life at Washington and in all probability will be of the set led by Miss Alice Roosevelt so soon as she makes sufficient progress in the language to make herself understood.

Two interesting boys form a part of the new Chinese minister's household. They are nine and seven years old respectively and will at once be placed under a competent governess, whose duty it will be to instruct them in English as rapidly as possible.

The Liang boys wear the Chinese costume and have their hair dressed in the fashion of their native land, which preserves a cue. They have with them a pair of wardrobes of rich silks; as becomes the sons of a wealthy and prominent Chinaman. While some of the members of the legation staff have adopted the American style of attire and address, the minister himself has never done so. Minister Wu, while up to date in nearly every American innovation, from the automobile to the latest and popular games, never saw fit to adopt the American dress. Whether or not this course was the result of his own preference or was because of policy was never divulged. Minister Liang has come here with the garments of his country, and it is not likely that he will soon discard them. Whether or not he will by and by turn the boys out in the clothing of young Americans is yet to be seen.

The minister's two boys now have good educations for boys of their ages. According to the custom of China, their instruction was begun early. They have been taught mathematics, and both of them have shown great readiness in solving problems in that science. Their instruction in the Chinese language and writing has been begun. Now their studies will be interrupted, and for a time they will learn Chinese only as they talk to members of the legation. All their energies will be devoted to the acquisition of English. After they have become fairly familiar with the language of the country it is likely that they will be placed at school in Washington. The two boys are to study until their American education is completed.

In all Chentung Liang Cheng brought about sixty-five persons with him to America. Twenty-five of them are students, "the very flower of our best families," as the minister expressed it. Some of them will be supported during their studies here by the Chinese government and some of them by private means. Most of them are of very wealthy families. With the new minister also came his entire personal suit, with secretaries, legation officials and attendants. Many of the members of the legation are accompanied by their wives.

In answer to a question Sir Chentung Liang Cheng said that he hoped for better commercial relations between the two countries. "Our markets are open to and ready to receive American goods," he said. "They have the preference for they are the best, and we realize it. Your cloths and woolsens, etc., are much superior in fabric, as a rule, to the imports in this line from other countries, because you Americans make things to wear. In my city, Canton, we much prefer American cloths because they wear much better, although more expensive."

"American inventions are rapidly obtaining a hold in China. Recently a telephone was put up between the summer palace of the emperor and the foreign office, so that a dispatch could be called for in a moment without the trouble of sending a courier. Electric lights are also in use."

In appearance the new Chinese minister is most pleasing. His six feet and 200 pounds of beaming good nature win the favor of all who meet him. His ready smile is quite impossible to resist. It is accompanied by a straightforward manner and a knowledge of American affairs acquired during his previous residence in this country.

When asked about his name the new minister replied: "My first name is Chentung, which is the same as the English John. My family name is Liang, pronounced Leeang. The latter part of my name is Cheng. Now put all those together and you have my full name, Chentung Liang Cheng."

Judging by the favorable impression he has already made, Minister Chentung Liang Cheng seems destined to be as popular as was the amiable and able Wu Tingfang.

SANKEY'S BLINDNESS.

How the Famous Singing Evangelist Lost the Use of His Eyes.

When worn out with over thirty years of religious labor Ira D. Sankey, the most famous of all singing evangelists, was stricken blind at his home in Brooklyn a short time ago. It was generally known that Dwight L. Moody's coworker had been the largest individual contributor to the Northfield school founded by Mr. Moody.

It is a fact, however, that Mr. Sankey has never kept for himself a penny of the royalties of the enormous sale of his gospel songs. He did not think it right that he should profit from the melodies he sang in the meetings. He established a trust for the collection of his share of the royalties, and it was all turned over to the schools. These royalties have amounted to over $500,000.

When Mr. Sankey first met Moody in 1870 he had no thought of becoming an evangelist. His taste rather turned to politics, as did that of his father, who had been a banker and politician in Pennsylvania. Nevertheless Mr. Moody persuaded him, and together they began the work which made them both so famous.

Mr. Sankey has been a prodigious worker all his life. No one unfamiliar with the facts can realize the strain of a protracted series of revival meetings. Mr. Sankey was a man of powerful physique, six feet tall, and his constitution was most robust. Not only did he bear the whole burden of the musical part of the services, but he also preached and took as active a part in the inquiry meetings as Mr. Moody. His present affliction is due to overwork.

When Mr. Moody died in 1899 Mr. Sankey tried to take up the burden himself. He preached as well as sang. He continued in evangelical work until a year ago, when illness compelled his retirement. Three months ago Mr. Sankey became blind from glaucoma. An operation relieved him somewhat, and he hopes that his sight may be partly restored. The sight of one eye is gone absolutely. That of the other may be saved.

He is very weak and emaciated and is not able to leave his house. Nurses are in constant attendance. A few of his most intimate friends call upon him at his Brooklyn home. His sons and their children come to cheer him, and his wife is always with him.

Mr. Sankey is not a poor man. He inherited a considerable sum of money from his father, and this he has increased by judicious investment. He is moderately rich. Mr. Sankey is sixty-three years old.

HELP FOR CONVICTS

WORK OF MRS. BALLINGTON BOOTH WITH THE UNFORTUNATES.

How She Came to Organize the Volunteers' Prisoners' League—Idea of the Hope Hall Retreats—Reclaiming the Fallen.

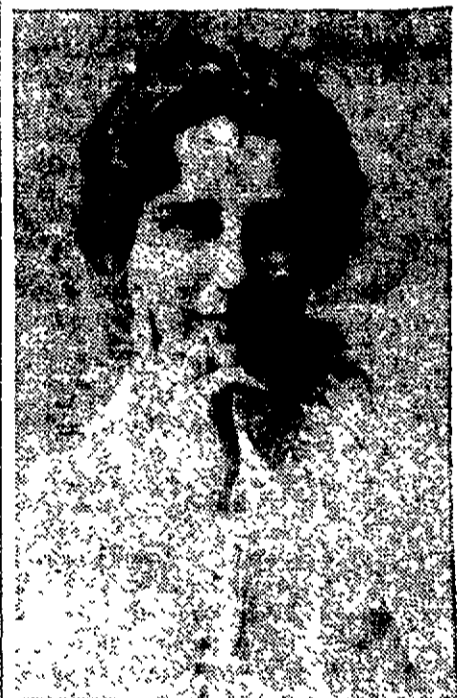

Stranger than any other organization of men is the Volunteers' Prisoners' league, whose certificates of membership today emblazon the walls of 12,000 cells in the prisons of this country. Stranger still is the fact that a woman was the organizer and is the present head of this organization and on her shoulders rests the entire burden of supporting a work for prisoners costing more than $20,000 a year. This woman is Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, known as the "little mother" by the 20,000 wearers and ex-wearers of the prison uniform who have come under her beneficent influence.

The story of the Volunteers' Prisoners' league is a wonderful one. It had its beginning in the break between the Salvation Army and Mr. and Mrs. Ballington Booth and the establishment by them of the Volunteers of America, a rival organization.

The Volunteers do work along all the lines made familiar by the Salvation Army; but, in addition, they speedily began to lay stress upon work for the prisoners of the country both while within prison walls and after their release. This department became Mrs. Booth's special field, and to it she has given her life. Since there are more than 80,000 men within the state prisons of the country she does not lack for opportunities.

This prison work began at Sing Sing prison, New York. At first it was a work of visitation. Mrs. Booth began to visit the men in their cells and to address them in chapel. She speedily won the confidence of the prisoners, and it was not long before the title "little mother" became attached to her. In her visits to prisoners Mrs. Booth is generally given a room or even a vacant cell, where she may confer in private with the men desiring to be brought to see her. Thither the prisoners are brought by their keepers, the latter remaining without while the sweet faced little woman is shut up with the men who wear the brand of criminals. Some of them are hardened and desperate offenders and not infrequently are murderers. To Mrs. Booth, however, they are simply men in need of comfort and counsel.

Soon it became evident that these men who were purposing a new life

for themselves should be bound together by some sort of organization. Thus the Volunteers' Prisoners' league came into existence. This organization has become a powerful factor in the life of a great many penal institutions. Regularly organized posts exist in the prisons at Sing Sing, N. Y.; Charlestown, Mass.; Auburn, N. Y.; Auburn Women's prison, New York; San Quentin, Cal.; Folsom, Cal.; Clinton, N. Y.; Trenton, N. J.; Joliet, Ill.; Baltimore; Columbus, O.; Canyon City, Colo.; Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; Anamosa, Ia., and Fort Madison, Ia.

Then the necessity of providing a retreat for released convicts presented itself. When a man comes from prison he is branded. Nobody will employ an ex-convict, and no one will work with him. So Mrs. Booth set about making a home for her "boys." As she had chosen the star of hope for the emblem of her prison work, so she named the house which she opened for the reception of discharged prisoners Hope hall. This first retreat was established at Flushing, N. Y., and it has been so largely used that it had to be enlarged. Two others have since been added, Hope hall No. 2 at Chicago and Hope hall No. 3 at Fort Dodge, Ia. Here the men find temporary shelter until employment can be secured for them. More than a thousand men have passed through the three Hope halls, and the records show that 75 per cent of them are doing well, while only a very small percentage have returned to the old life. The theory of the Hope halls is "a second chance for the man who is down."

Mrs. Booth is the wife of Ballington Booth, son of General William Booth of the Salvation Army. She is the daughter of a Church of England clergyman. With her husband and her two children she occupies a charming home in one of the New Jersey suburbs of New York city. Two-thirds of her time, however, is given to her self sacrificing work of reclaiming the friendless convict.

THE SUCCESS OF BECK.

Assistant Attorney General Who Won the Mergers Case.

James M. Beck, who recently resigned the position of assistant United States attorney general to ally himself with one of the leading corporation law firms of New York, is the attorney who won the famous Northern Securities merger case for the government.

Mr. Beck's career in the public service has been one of dazzling success. He first held office under the government in 1888, when he was appointed assistant United States attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania. Later he resigned, but in 1896 President Cleveland made him attorney of the same district, in which office he remained over four years. Many important cases were tried by him, and in most of them the government won through his efforts.

One of the most notable of Mr. Beck's cases was the prosecution of his predecessor, Ellery P. Ingham, to gether with Mr. Ingham's official assistant, for attempting to bribe a secret service officer. The prosecution of these men attracted widespread attention and resulted in sending ten men to prison.

In the summer of 1900 Mr. Beck resigned the office of United States attorney and was soon after made assistant attorney general by McKinley.

Mr. Beck was the prosecutor in the celebrated Neely case, in which the right of the government to prosecute the defendant for alleged irregularities in the postal affairs of Cuba was maintained.

James M. Beck is still a young man, being in his forty-third year. What hair he has left is fair, and his blue eyes are almost hidden by thick glasses which weak sight compels him to wear. He is a native of Philadelphia and was married in 1890 to a daughter of James Mitchell of that city. They have two children. Although Mr. Beck has joined forces with the firm of Shearman & Sterling, New York, he will retain his connection with the firm of Beck, Robinson & Kane of Philadelphia, of which he has been a member for several years.

Why Golf May Lose Its Most Famous Woman Exponent.

Golf circles are wondering whether the recent marriage of Miss Genevieve Hecker, for the past two years woman national golf champion, to Mr. Charles T. Stout will remove this most brilliant wielder of the club from the game.

Possibly there is no other woman in all America who by her tremendous achievements on the golf links became so widely and favorably known. As a golfer Mrs. Stout is considered by a majority of experts the best woman exponent of the game in this country. She is now only twenty, and her first

Baseball Doings

The Philadelphia Nationals Have a Hard Hitting Team This Year * Wolverton Playing Star Game. Billy Sunday's Career.

The change in the management of the Philadelphia Nationals has given the Quaker baseball players a new lease of life, and they are playing the game with a vigor that has not been seen in Ben Franklin's city in many a day.

Under the expert guidance of "Chief" Charley Zimmer the Phillies have opened the season in good shape, and the first thing they did was to defeat Connie Mack's Athletics in a series for the local championship, for which accomplishment the new management presented each of the twenty players with a crisp fifty dollar bill.

Zimmer has gathered together a formidable aggregation of players, and from the manner in which they have been hitting the ball in various of their games it would seem that they are determined to have "none but Phillies on guard" at the head of the batting average schedule.

In a recent game in Boston, in which they "trounced" the Red Sox to the tune of 8 to 4, the Phillies made seven hits in one inning, driving Pitcher Platt to the bench. Roy Thomas, the reliable center fielder, Harry Wolverton, third base man; Barry, left fielder, and Hallman, second base, are among the Quakers that are doing the heaviest hitting just now. Wolverton is playing a star game in his position, and this, in connection with his batting, makes him a very dangerous man for teams desirous of scalping the former disciples of Colonel John Rogers.

Fred Mitchell is a conscientious member of the Phillies who will make a big reputation in the pitcher's box one of these days. He is an active, heady worker and has won the confidence of the team.

Much interesting comment has been aroused by the announcement that Hugh Jennings, captain of last year's Philadelphia National league team and at present a student at Cornell and coach of the Cornell baseball nine, will not play professional ball during the season. Jennings announced definitely that if he should play this year it would be his last appearance on the diamond as a professional. He has played twelve years and is willing to retire. He is determined to begin the practice of law as soon as possible.

In regard to playing this season, Jennings said: "The harmonization of the American and National leagues, though from the owners' viewpoint a most excellent move, from the players' point of view was not at all a profitable arrangement."

"Under the former system, when two independent and rival leagues ruled baseball, it was possible for a player to take advantage of the element of competition and rivalry and so gain materially. I have always played with the National league, and the relations between myself and the owners of the several clubs with which I have played have been very cordial. Nevertheless, in view of the fact that under the new rules of procedure in league circles a man has no wide field of choice of different teams, I have seriously thought of giving up baseball from this time on."

Of all the popular idols of the ball field, Billy Sunday has undoubtedly gained prominence in the most widely different fields. His step from baseball player to evangelist, asking all to make a "home run for heaven," caused wide comment throughout the country some twelve years ago, and when he was recently ordained as a Presbyterian minister he was again brought prominently before his old time friends, and the incident has brought out many a discussion among the fans regarding his baseball career.

The same forcefulness which now characterizes his evangelistic work was prominent in Sunday's career on the diamond. He was always conscientious, painstaking and aggressive and a brilliant outfielder, but it was his wonderful speed in running the bases for which he was particularly noted.

It was in the early eighties that "Cap" Anson discovered young Sunday in Marshalltown, Ia. Anson was visiting his old Iowa home at a time when a fire tournament was in progress, and in this meet the wonderful swiftness displayed by Sunday attracted the attention of the Chicago baseball manager.

At that time Sunday was employed driving a hearse for an undertaking establishment at Marshalltown, but after a talk with "Uncle Adrian" the young man was soon convinced that he could make money playing baseball. He journeyed to Chicago and was made a member of the famous team which won the National league championships for Chicago in the years 1885 and 1886.

On that team were Flint and Kelly, catchers; Clarkson, McCormick and Flynn, pitchers; Anson, Pfeffer, Burns and Williamson, the "stone wall infield," and Dalmory, Ryan and Sunday, the outfield. This was fast company indeed, but Sunday was admittedly the fastest man on the team, and "Cap" Anson still maintains that Sunday was the speediest base runner who has ever played the game of baseball in the National league.

His swiftness of foot was also given tests of the diamond. A special match race was once run between Sunday and the famous and fleet footed Arlie

FRED MITCHELL, PROMISING PHILLIE TWINNER.

Latham at St. Louis, and, again quoting Captain Anson, "Billy simply run rings around Latham." On another occasion Sunday defeated several famous sprinters in the West Side ball park, Chicago.

In fact, Anson, wherever the ball team went, was always on the lookout for matches in which he was invariably willing to back Sunday against the best runners the city could produce. Some of these races were not only run for money, but on the Sabbath, and now in his pulpit talks Sunday often mentions the same. Anson both won and lost on these races.

When Benny Yanger and Eddie Hanlon were recently matched to fight at San Francisco in June, a bout more suited to the wishes of Young Corbett, the champion, could not have been arranged. Corbett has both Hanlon and Yanger to whip before he holds a clean title to the championship of the feather weights.

The fact that the two men are to meet in June relieves Corbett of any further necessity of refusing challenges from them, or, to put it differently, he can wait, as he wishes and as he is entitled to, until Yanger and Hanlon have fought it out. Then he can take on the winner when he gets ready. In the eyes of the public, if Corbett whips the winner of that fight he will have whipped both men. By arranging to meet, Yanger and Hanlon have made it easier for the champion.

Bob Fitzsimmons says he has made three times as much money on the stage as he has in the ring.

Since his recent disastrous bout with Jack Root in Detroit Kid McCoy has concluded that a man cannot cease training for a considerable length of time without "going back."

How to Punch The Bag

World's Champion Keller Tells How to Excel In the Popular Pastime * Practice Faithfully * Elbow Blows Explained. A New Tattoo.

Harry Keller, who recently won the title of "world's champion bag puncher," is an able New York athlete who has perfected the art of thumping the pigskin to a wonderful degree. In the recent competition which he captured Keller was opposed to the leading bag punchers in the country, and, notwithstanding this fact, he carried off first prize, a handsome gold medal, without exerting himself more than he would in a practice bout with the swinging spheroid. Keller has originated several new "stunts" which are as attractive and interesting as they are intricate. Not satisfied with punching one bag at a time, he sometimes manipulates two, three and even four of them simultaneously, operating with his feet bags attached to the floor in addition to two hung from the ceiling. Keller has made a scientific study of the art of bag punching, and he speaks in an interesting and instructive manner concerning the art.

By HARRY KELLER.
The Champion Bag Puncher of the World.

To become an expert puncher of the bag requires a considerable amount of time and patience. Any young man, or old one either for that matter, can excel in this pastime if he but determine to keep on trying in spite of discouragements.

The first thing to do is to obtain good, strong apparatus. You cannot do creditable work with a poor bag that does not rebound quickly, just as a mechanic is hampered when using inferior tools. For costume a pair of light tights, a jersey, gymnasium shoes and short stockings are all that are required. The use of gloves is optional.

KELLER PUNCHING KNEE AND SINGLE BAGS.

I never use them, and I would suggest that any one desirous of obtaining the best results also discard them.

The bag should be hung so that it reaches about an inch below the level of the shoulders. It should be inflated by means of a bicycle pump. Do not blow it up with the mouth.

The bag puncher should stand close to the bag in an easy position. The legs should not be stretched so far apart as to appear ungraceful or strained, and the hands should be clinched with the knuckles and finger joints on a perfectly straight line if possible.

You should first practice simply punching the bag out in front or to either side with one hand. When you have perfected this rudimentary move, you can bring both hands into play, hitting the spheroid alternately with either. You should not think of using more than one bag until you have had at least four or five months' practice with a single bag. You must begin at the bottom of the ladder and work your way up, just as a soldier rises from the ranks to a position of authority.

After mastering the variations of simple hand work you can take up the elbow blows and their combinations with the hand movements. It is necessary to be absolutely accurate in elbow work, for the slightest error is sure to bring about a disastrous end.

Elbow work is hard and awkward at first, but if you work at it faithfully you will soon get the hang of it. Much depends on proper balance. Your own instinct and a little practice will soon teach you this, just as it teaches you to judge distance in hitting.

Many people, when they find they can't pick up the whole science of bag punching in a week, get discouraged and stop work. The chances are ten to one that they will never make a success of anything in life. And there is another class, the men who lose their temper when the bag does not behave just as they expect it to. They hammer the bag angrily and wildly, spoiling any good effect the exercise might bring.

Such men must remember the fault is not with the bag, but with their own awkwardness.

Now for the elbow work. Stand in position, throw the left arm out, the arm from shoulder to elbow being almost parallel with the shoulder, the arm from elbow to wrist being bent at a right angle to the rest of the arm.

By turning the left arm and shoulder hit the bag with the elbow, driving the bag against the ring, letting it rebound to the other side of the ring and back again, and hitting it with the elbow once more on the third rebound. The blow is not nearly as easy to do accurately as when delivered with the fist for the simple reason that you are not accustomed to use the elbow for that purpose and are inclined to be awkward at it just at first. But practice will soon make you familiar with it.

Let the right side of the left elbow (when forearm is turned downward)

KELLER PUNCHING TWO BAGS AT ONCE.

hit the bag. When hitting a "back elbow blow" (which will come later), hit the other side of the elbow. For the sake of convenience we will call the present elbow blow and all elbow blows that drive the bag in front of you rather than behind "forward elbow blows."

After learning the forward elbow blow with the left arm try it with the right.

In the right arm work keep the left foot still advanced, but turn the right shoulder farther forward, so that the chest is flush with the bag and at the necessary distance from it. You will soon learn the distance as well as the required balance and motion for hips and shoulders.

After learning to hit the bag with the elbow on the third rebound try it on the first rebound.

After that hit it with the left elbow and on the third rebound hit it with the right, alternating. Then with left and right on first rebound, as in tattoo.

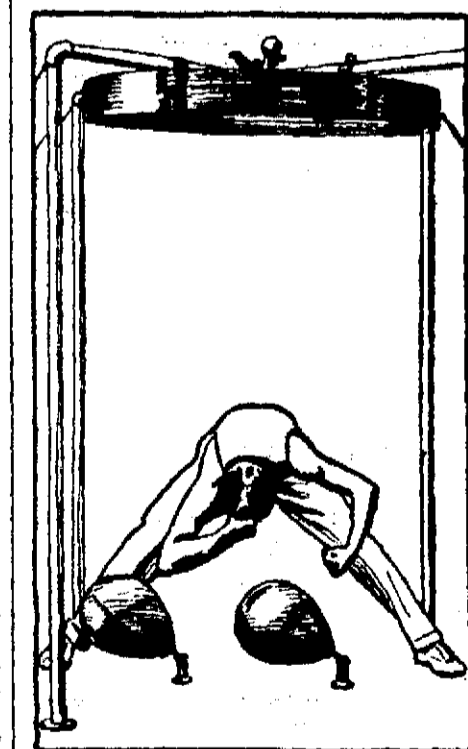

Next try a new and pretty tattoo, which is really not so very hard:

Hit the bag with the left elbow. On the rebound hit it with the right fist. Let it strike the ring, and as it comes back hit it again with the left elbow, driving it against the ring and tapping it once more with the right fist as it comes back, keeping this up as long as you can. You will in time learn to do it almost as quickly as you can now work the regular fist tattoo. No shift of shoulders and chest is necessary when working from left elbow to right fist in this tattoo.

After mastering this try the same thing with right elbow and left fist.

Now practice some back elbow blows.

Hold the left arm as when dealing a forward elbow blow, but hit the bag

with the opposite side of the elbow. This will drive it to the ring somewhat behind you, making it more difficult to hit it again on the third or even the first rebound. Practice it faithfully, going slow at first, and in time you can acquire it.

Then try it with the right elbow in the same way.

This year the holidays double up. Memorial day and Fourth of July combine Saturday and Sunday; Labor day, Sunday and Monday; and Christmas, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

That massive oil tank, on the scale of the Roman coliseum, that was to be located on Noble's Island, appears to be just as much of a pipe dream now as it was when the great project was first sprung a number of weeks ago.

OBITUARY.

David Barry, one of the old residents of this city, died this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Hennessey, Salter street. He was about seventy years of age. He leaves three daughters and two sons.

BOTH SIDES FIRM.

Neither Carpenters Nor Contractors Will Give In.

STRIKERS BELIEVE OTHER WORKMEN WILL BE FORCED OUT.

There is still no change in the carpenters' strike. Both sides seem determined to hold out.

The Master Builders claim they are in a position to hold out all summer, if necessary. They all have what is called the "strike clause" in all contracts, which protects them from suits in case the work is not completed within contract time.

The carpenters, however, are still confident that they will be the victors in the end. They think that, in time, their being out will force out all the other workmen in town, such as plumbers, masons and painters.

They believe that the growing condition of the city will not permit a very long strike, for there are dozens of people who have plans for houses all prepared and want them finished before the winter.

AGAIN POSTPONED.

Moving Of Y. M. C. A. Building Put Off Because Of Bad Weather.

The moving of the old Y. M. C. A. building was again postponed, Tuesday night. Contractor Ellis brought his horses from York yesterday morning believing that the day was to be fair, but the rain which came up in the afternoon made it impossible for him to do the work as planned.

"The job is a sufficiently difficult one, even in dry weather," he said to a representative of The Herald, "and I certainly shall not undertake it when the streets are slippery with mud."

The building will be moved on the next pleasant night.

NO QUORUM.

Meeting Of Board Of Instruction Not Held On Tuesday Evening.

The regularly scheduled meeting of the board of instruction was not held on Tuesday evening, owing to the lack of a quorum. Messrs. Martin, Hodgdon, Newton, Walden, Pollard, McCarthy, Mayor Marcy and Superintendent of Schools Morrison were present, but none of the other members put in an appearance.

BEFORE GRAND JURY.

Marshal Fogarty and Officer George Smith of Dover came to this city on Tuesday and appeared before the grand jury at the United States circuit court, in the case of Phillip Willette, otherwise called Phillip Bush, charged with keeping liquor for sale without a special government stamp. Willette is the fellow who was recently arrested at the Mineral springs, where he was keeping a gin mill.

The steamer Rockland, which is to run on the Isles of Shoals route this summer, is receiving a thorough overhauling at Portland. She will arrive here about June 12.

CASE OF SCARLET FEVER.

There is a case of scarlet fever in the family of William C. Randall, at 72 Hanover street. A daughter is the victim. The house has been placarded for several days.

COMIC OPERA TO BE GIVEN.

A comic opera is to be given in this city this summer, by local talent. Many of the old favorites will be seen in the east.

MAY COME HERE.

Possibility Of Visit From Samuel Gompers.

CENTRAL LABOR UNION BELIEVE IT WOULD BE PROFITABLE.

There is a possibility that this city may receive a visit from Samuel Gompers, at a not distant date, if press of other engagements does not prevent.

An invitation may be extended to him by the Central Labor union, through its secretary.

The officials of the union would like very much to have Mr. Gompers speak in this city.

They believe there is a chance for him to make many converts here. They say the city is just waking up to labor unionism, and they believe the president of the American Federation of Labor could explain their views in a manner which would attract many adherents.

Mr. Gompers is now in this vicinity, and it is believed that he would find it convenient to accept an invitation to come here and give an address.

WANTED BADLY—

A City Directory at Once Complete And Correct.

Is it impossible for Portsmouth to ever get a decent city directory?

It is high time that local parties were engaged to do this work. The business men should refuse to give their advertisements to out of town canvassers and turn their support to men belonging right here in Portsmouth, who could make a thorough and correct canvass of the city and get up a directory worth having in house, office or shop.

A copy of the latest city directory to be issued has reached the Herald office.

It is unsatisfactory in every particular.

The proof reading is wretched, the addresses are badly askew, occupations are seriously twisted, scores of names are not in it at all—in fact, it is not worth a bit of fiddlers' rosin to newspaper men and others who have to consult it frequently.

The trouble was not even taken to change the addresses of some people who moved shortly after the 1901 directory came out—the last one previous to this.

Here in the Herald establishment, for instance, the names of two employees who have been connected with this paper for several years (and both of whom were in the 1901 directory) are left out entirely.

The same neglect applies to other business places in the city.

The "house" directory is ridiculously incomplete. Many new streets are not mentioned at all, and their residents find themselves "off the map," so far as the location of their homes is concerned.

Portsmouth is a growing city. It needs a reliable and comprehensive directory. It is hoped that next time it will get one.

CAME DOWN TO WORK

Two Exeter Carpenters Did, But Joined the Union Instead.

An interesting incident in connection with the carpenters' strike occurred today.

Two Exeter carpenters who were out of a job came down here to go to work for a local contractor. They were ignorant of the real condition of affairs.

As soon as they got their bearings on the local situation, instead of going to work they joined the Carpenters' union.

NOT VERY REGULAR.

The Exeter cars have not been keeping to schedule time very closely for the past week or so. Consequently, they have not come clear through to Market square on every trip, but have waited at the Plains for the city cars to come out. This has led to considerable complaint from those who have been called to Exeter by superior court.

A TRIO OF FREAKS.

Police Captain Marden Has Three Very Eccentric Visitors.

Frank Mooney, with a jag and a taste for music, was brought into the police station early Tuesday evening by Officers Ducker and Hilton and entertained the members of the force who were present by singing several popular songs. It was thought best to give him an opportunity for private rehearsal, so he was assigned to a cell.

A little later, Officers Carlton and West brought another night roysterer up from Water street. This gentleman claimed to have been attacked and knocked down by an unknown assailant and pointed to a slight abrasion over one eye in proof of his assertion. His injury was not serious enough, however, to induce Capt. Marden to institute an investigation. When asked his name, the man refused to give it and appeared to be rather uncertain as to what it was. He was also given quarters for the night.

Another visitor arrived in care of Special Officer Charles H. Brackett of Greenland. Mr. Brackett had found the man lying by the roadside in that town and had taken him in charge. The prisoner gave his name as Philip Peno and told Mr. Brackett that he worked at the brickyard, whether at York or Dover Point he did not say. Peno expressed a perfect willingness to sleep in the open, but the Greenland officer thought that he would be less likely to contract pneumonia if lodged in the Portsmouth police station.

DEATH A SURPRISE.

Alderman John Long Passed Away This Morning.

HAD BEEN ILL WITH PNEUMONIA BUT A SHORT TIME.

Alderman John Long died at twenty minutes after seven o'clock this morning at his home, 14 Deer street. He had been ill only one day, with pneumonia.

Mr. Long was taken with a chill on Monday evening, but on the following morning he went, as usual, to his barber shop on Market street. There he was taken with another chill and returned home.

He grew worse alarmingly fast, and when the physician was called, was found to be dangerously ill. He sank rapidly until death ensued.

Mr. Long was born in Durham. He was thirty-four years of age last Thursday.

He moved to Dover when quite a young man and learned the trade of Alderman John Long.

barber, at which he has worked for eighteen years. Eleven years ago he came to this city and went into business with James Sherry on Congress street. A few years later, he moved to his present shop on Market street. Mr. Long has been active in politics in Ward five for some years. He has served in the common council and last March was elected an alderman.

He was a charter member of the Dover order of Foresters and a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of this city. He was also president of the Barbers' Union for some time.

Mr. Long was very popular. His jovial manner made him friends wherever he went.

There survive him a widow and an adopted child, a mother and two brothers, Matthew and Francis, both of Dover.
